CMRL Bio STP - waste water recycling plant (without electricity) completes one year successfully

CMRL Bio STP - waste water recycling plant (without electricity) has completed its one year successfully. CMRL, an integral part of Chennaiites life over two years, has contributed in easing transportation in the ever-growing city's travel chaos. Adding another feather to its cap, CMRL had launched another green initiative "Bio-sewage treatment plant" without electricity at CMBT Metro station with the anaerobic sewage treatment plant for 10 KLD capacity on June 05, 2018 – the "World Environment Day".

This Green initiative too has been a trend-setter! Having convinced of its utility, CMRL considers this as an ideal solution to city's mushrooming multi-level residential complexes as an affordable, economical, nonrecurring maintenance and not the least, saving on electricity and water! It's a boon to sanitation!

Chennai Metro Rail had executed a Pilot project of Bio Sewage treatment plant, which does not require electricity to run the plant since last year June 5th, 2018 on World Environment Day and now the plant has thus been successfully running for past one year and saved huge water.
